

Autonomic Tracking to Enhance Orientation and Integration with Lael Keen

2 Day workshop to learn the basics of autonomic tracking

May 19./20. 2019 in Basel

This two day workshop is designed to teach the basics of autonomic tracking and its application to orienting, movement and posture, which will be an important tool for the Breathing workshop. Other ways to have learned these basics would have been to have attended the Beginning Level of the Somatic Experiencing® Training or to have done one or more Rolfing and Trauma workshops with Lael. This workshop may also be interesting for those who have already done the Rolfing and Trauma workshops and would like to review, or for Rolfers or Structural Integrators who have done the Somatic Experiencing® training and would like to learn some new ways to bridge autonomic tracking into the practice of Rolfing®.

The main topics covered will be:

- The physiology of trauma and how this relates to the practice of Rolfing
- How to recognize when you are running into trauma in your client's system and how to conduct the process in such a way that the traumatic energies can discharge safely
- Techniques for tracking the autonomic nervous system.
- How trauma affects our capacity to orient and how our capacity to orient affects structure and function.
